A GLANCE OF UDAYANA UNIVERSITY

Udayana University, widely known as UNUD or Udayana, has been established in August 17th, 1962. However, since September 29th, 1958, a faculty named the Faculty of Letters had been created as a branch of Airlangga University, a university in Surabaya. The Faculty of Letters, the embryo of Udayana, was officially acknowledged as part of the Airlangga since January 1, 1959. Then, the Udayana anniversary has been celebrated in each September 29.

Udayana has develop rapidly. Accordingly, in 2017 the university has managed 13 faculties, 25 master programs, and 9 doctoral programs.

Teaching, research, and community development are the main core of Udayana's life. Consisting of three block of campuses. The main campus is located in the southern of Bali, at the Jimbaran Hill, right in the center of the Bali international tourism area, approximately half an hour drive from the airport. While, the two city campuses are located in the heart of Denpasar, the capital city of Bali, inhabited by nearly 1.5 million people. The University is in the prime location in Bali which enable students to study well and enjoy the beauty of the island.

As of today, thousands of international students have studied in Udayana, taking either short courses or study abroad, internship, a full undergraduate degree or postgraduate study. Students come from different parts of the world, from as south as Brazil up to the north of Europe such as Norway and Finland. The annual international student number is increasing in line with Udayana's plan to offer more international classes. The internationalization of Udayana is fully supported by the Ministry of Research, Technology and Higher Education.

Udayana has a long history in collaborating with international universities from around the world such as Australia, Asia, USA, and Europe.

THE CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS

EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Short-term program to study abroad while you are still enrolled at a university in your home country on the basis of inter-university exchange agreements. The objective is not necessarily to obtain a degree but rather acquire a foreign language, experience a foreign culture or study at a university, etc. in a foreign country or region. Receive education for a semester or several semesters within an academic year, acquiring credits

Credit acquired at the university where the exchange student is studying is generally calculated into the credits earned at the university where the exchange student is originally enrolled. Depending on the number of credits earned, it becomes possible for the student to graduate from the university where he/she is originally enrolled when the standard number of years necessary for acquiring a degree is reached. Tuition is ordinarily paid to the university where the exchange student is originally enrolled. However, there is a need to confirm how tuition should be paid while abroad as an exchange student or how credits are handled as they may differ from university to university.

Therefore, the student must be well informed on the agreement between home university and host university for each clause that will be applied, afterward the home university can be communicate for the exchange arrangements. Note: Another case sometimes happened, for the student who change the passport or extend the passport during as KITAS holder, the student need to enclose an additional recommendation from University that explain the case of it.

Accommodation in Bali

Wide range of accommodation is available in Bali from staying with local families, renting rooms or a house, or villa style accommodation is widely available. Udayana has a limited number of self-catering accommodation but mainly for local students. A new student accommodation is being developed by the university.

Staying with local family can be an interesting experience. You will not only witness the life of locals but also becoming part of the inner circle.

The fact that Bali is tourist destination has boosted the development of accommodation facilities, both for holiday-makers and for those who work to support the industry. Room rent is available for monthly or annual contract rent.

You can also rent a house or villa style home that is now popular among students or visitors who extend their stay in Bali.

Udayana has a limited number of rooms for students. Our student population is very large in comparison with the rooms available. The room is allocated on a first come first serve base.

Transportation

In Bali, transport is generally good, although traffics is very busy. There is no public transport, although recently the government launched a public transport project served by bus that run from Nusa Dua area in the suburb of Denpasar. Private cars or motorbike becomes the only transport means for the public.

Taxi is one of the most convenient and reliable transportation on the island. BlueBird Taxi would be the top rank option out of several numbers of Taxi Company that you may see on the road when you search for this public transportation. Once you use a Taxi, always request for the taximeter to be turned on.

Alternatively, online-based transportation services have become a popular trend in recent media and Indonesians daily life that may give you another option while you traveling. They provide services of a motorcycle-taxi and delivery. One of the most well-known taxi is GOJEK, where you need to book them on an app in advance. You may need to have the GOJEK app installed on your smartphone. This type of transportation is recommended only when you travel light and know your way around.

Health Service

If you stay in Bali, you need to have insurance to cover your health cost. If you need medical treatments, you can go the nearest hospital or clinics. Private clinics are available, including ambulance service.

Food in Bali

Food is generally easy to find in Bali. Local cuisine or international food as well as fast food outlets. You can also sample many of Indonesian food in Bali.

Self-catering. A good accommodation is normally fitted with kitchen; hence preparing your meal can be something that you can enjoy. Fresh, produce; groceries can be sourced easily in the neighborhood. So get your chef hat and start dishing.

Food stalls. During the day, if you roam the city or town you will notice that many shops sell ready to eat food, local or Indonesian food. This is commonplace for local to have lunch or dinner. Moreover, in the evening, more stalls are open at the front of shops. A Dish of fried fish or chicken with salads is very popular.

Food peddlers. If you see peddlers pushing their wheey box with glass display on the neighborhood, then they are ready to sell the very popular bowl. They are called 'bakso'. It consist of meatballs of beef or chicken and sometime pork. Together with chopped meat, the meatballs, and a little of sliced cabbage and sprinkle of celery and fried onion, served in one bowl.

Restaurants. If you want to enjoy your meal with a little bit service, then the restaurant is perhaps high on the list. Many places serve Balinese food as well as Indonesian or international cuisine. JalanTeuku Umar has many places for dining but tourist area such as Nusa Dua, Kuta, Seminyak, Jimbaran offer more selection.

Shopping for Groceries

Traditional markets are where most of the locals find their fresh and produce or groceries. This marketplace is open early in the morning and up to midday or early afternoon. Prices are negotiable, so it is a good opportunity to practice your communication skills in Bahasa Indonesia.

In every neighborhood, there will be at least a small traditional market. The largest traditional market in Bali is Pasar Badung and Pasar Kumbasari. The two markets are located right in the heart of Denpasar city, at Jalan Gajah Mada, an area now assigned as cultural heritage.

For those in need of supplies conveniently and round the clock, there are wide network of shops that open 24 hours. The shops are generally clean and modern and situated in most of the busiest parts of the city. Note that prices are slightly above average, but the shop never sleeps.

Minimarket can be found in the busier part of the town. Prices are better than convenient shops, but they are open from eight in the morning and up to nine in the evening. The goods include fresh, produce, and groceries as well as anything that house hold needs.

Supermarket or hypermarket area where you can get almost everything that you need. The Prices are good, but the location of the shop is only on certain area. Supermarket in Denpasar is Tiara Dewata, Hyper mart, Hardys, Carrefour, Hero and other.

Enjoy and Explore Bali

Bali is relatively small. An island of 5.600 square kilometers. The temples founded around the island, hence many considers Bali as islands of thousand temples or the Islands of Gods. Explore the people, the arts, and natural landscape around the island.

Dining Out and Clubs. lace for dining is ample with a wide choice for cuisine both local, Indonesian or international. If you are into pubs and clubs, Kuta, Sanur, Seminyak, Nusa Dua offers many them.

Balinese Arts Performance. Many places or stage offers regular Balinese arts and cultural performance. Visit Ubud, the home of international artist as well local painters and artisans.

Sports. Water sports are popular among young generation. Dive or snorkel in one of the most exciting underwater life in Bali in Tulamben, Amed, Giliisland and more. Alternatively, ride the wave in Uluwatu, Canggu, Kuta or Seminyak, while

Nature and Outdoors. View the panoramic scene of Batur mount with its lake in Kintamani, a two-hour drive from Denpasar. On the other hand, enjoy the tranquility of Jati Luwih rice field terrace or elsewhere around Bali.

Bali and Beyond

While you are staying in Bali, explore other parts of Indonesia. The archipelago has more than 17,000 islands and over 300 local languages and cultures. From the eastern part in Papua to the western point in Aceh waiting for your visits.

Lombok Island. If you travel further east from Bali, crossing the short channel, then you will arrive in Lombok Island. It has a beautiful sandy beach.

beautiful sun rising in the east.

Bromo mount in East Java. Surabaya, the capital of East Java province, is the second largest city of Indonesia. One of the best natural landscape is Gunung Bromo. Climb the mountain at night arrive at the peak early morning and witness the Komodo Island is one of the 17,508 islands that compose the Republic of Indonesia. The island is particularly notable as the habitat of the Komodo dragon, the largest lizard on Earth, which is named after the island. Come and have a close encounter with the dragon.

Prambanan. The temple is a legacy of Hinduism in Indonesia. It is standing at 47 meters above ground level built using the technology of their time, but it still strongly after more than a thousand years. Many consider as the most beautiful temple of the world.

Flight to Bali

Ngurah Rai airport is the second largest airport in Indonesia and becomes an international gateway for Indonesia second after Soekarno Hatta Jakarta's international airport. It serves around 25 airlines flying from all corners of the globe.

The Indonesian flight carrier, Garuda Indonesia, features international flight to Australia, Japan and Singapore. International carrier includes KLM, Air Asia, Cathay Pacific, Malaysia airlines, Virgin, China airlines, Thai, and Singapore airlines.

Internet access

Bali has good coverage of telecommunication service both wired and wireless communication. Hotels, restaurants, cafes, fast food outlet such as KFC, McDonald, Dunkin Donats, Pizza, provide free wifi (hot spots) access to their customers. In addition, there are many internet cafe for accessing internet with the cost of less than one US dollar for one-hour access. Mobile internet access is gaining popularity, as more service is available from providers such as Telkom, XL, Three, and Indosat.

Internet broadband access is becoming popular due to wide coverage service and good speed access. To use this service you need a USB MODEM that is widely available in Denpasar. Credits can be purchased as pay as you go scheme.

Especially at the Udayana University, the Hotspot facility has reached all the corners of campus.

Telecommunication service

Extensive telecommunication networks, particularly the wireless access, cover every part of the island. The Mobile phone has reached deep into the remote areas. Some of the telecommunication company is Telkomsel, XL, Smart, Three, Axis, etc.

The providers offer good package so you can decide which one suit you best. Service is available as pre-paid top up in which you purchase the voucher from widely available small shops throughout the island. Alternatively, the contract base service is also available for you in need of constant communication with people back home. Using local provider for your communication device in Bali might be better to prevent roaming charges from your home provider. In Bali, the cost of new mobile phone set is perhaps a little lower than the price in your home country, but since you live in Bali temporarily then second hand set might be a better option. Many shops offer good price for this used set so walk and shop around.

A typical signboard at small shops around Bali that sell top up vouchers for your mobile phone.

The Traffic and the Police

Driving in Bali, or generally in Indonesia, will require driving license for driving a car as well as a motorbike or motorcycle. It is against the law for anyone found driving without license. If you already have an international driving license, then this can be used to apply for a local driving license. However, if you do not have one then, if you are above the age of 18 then you can apply for driving license.

Generally, a traffic sign in Bali or Indonesia follows international convention. Driving is on the left side of the road. Crossing or turning should follow traffic light or sign posted near the traffic light posts.

The police is patrolling the road and watch the traffic in many corners of the streets. It is common that the police stop drivers and ask to produce driving license or vehicle registration or perhaps your identity. Fails to do this, they are ready with the ticket.

First Aid Kit

Several things might be helpful you need to have with you during your stay in Bali particularly if you are a new traveler. First Aid Kit would be your essential packing list you need to be considered of.

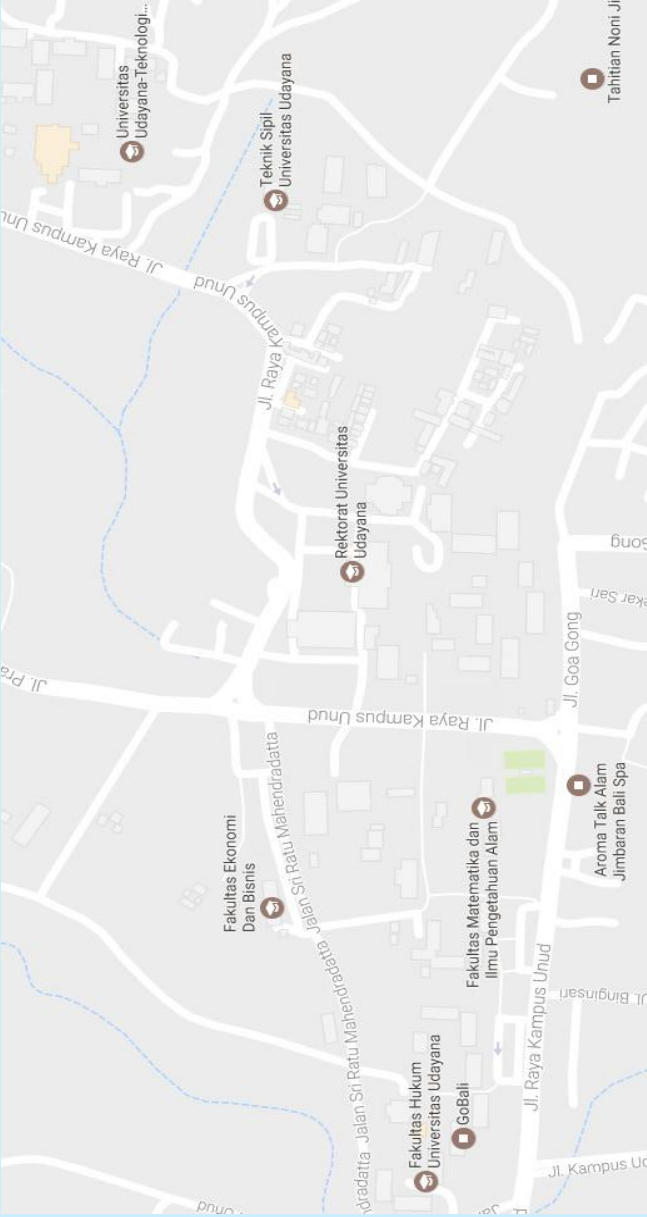

Suggested medications for your first aid kit are analgesics (Tylenol, ASA, codeine), anti malaria (discuss with medical professional), anti-diarrheal (Imodium, Pepto-Bismol); an antibiotic such as Cipro, Zithromax), Antiseptic cream or drops (Betadine, etc), rehydration salts (Gastrolyte), antihistamine (Benadryl), sunscreen and the usual prescription and non-prescription medications used regularly. Others to be included in your kit should be band-aids, tensor bandage, tweezers, insect repellent.

Most of these materials are available in Bali. If you do not want to make up your own, you can simply purchase them at any Red Cross/Pharmacy store in Bali.
